November 15, 2023 – Galaxy Entertainment Group (“GEG”) facilitates Macau’s sports development by proactively supporting, joining, and organizing various sports events and activities. As one of the main sponsors of the Macau Grand Prix that was kicked off last Saturday, GEG organized a series of Grand Prix related activities for the community apart from extending its support to this major sports event and hosting side events. These community activities included GEG’s invitation for members from various local organizations to visit the Macau Grand Prix Museum, participate in an exclusive session at the Pit Stop Challenge at Galaxy Macau™, and to watch the races. Through these activities, GEG hoped to promote the Grand Prix’s excitement, and engage the different sectors through sports.

Supporting the Youth Volunteer Association of Macao’s “One Day Volunteer” event for the 10th year, GEG invited nearly 20 elderlies to visit the Macau Grand Prix Museum and to learn of the event’s 70 years of history in Macau, encourage them to remain active in the community and participate in sports-related exchanges. Accompanied by members of the GEG Volunteer Team and the museum’s docent, the elderlies were given a guided tour where they appreciated the racing exhibits, experienced interactive games, and gained insights into Macau’s motorsports culture. Additionally, GEG purchased snacks from the Sam Meng Chi Snack Shop, a social enterprise of the Macau Association for Intellectual Development Services, for the elderlies to enjoy after their museum tour, thereby conveying care to different communities.

Leveraging on the series of Macau Grand Prix celebration events that were being held at Galaxy Macau, GEG organized an exclusive session at the Pit Stop Challenge for approximately 40 people from the Macau Autism Association, Sheng Kung Hui Macau Social Services Coordination Office (“SKH”), the GEG Youth Achievement Program (“YAP”), and the Macao New Chinese Youth Association. The session provided participants with an opportunity to gain insights into a Formula One champion team and take part in a range of exciting racing-themed games, such as using real pit crew tools to change tires, challenging the professional reaction tester, and experiencing the excitement of the Guia Circuit through a racing simulator, which they all enjoyed with enthusiasm. Furthermore, GEG also invited over 70 members and youth from the Lui Che Woo College of University of Macau, SKH, the Macau Special Olympics, and the YAP to watch the thrilling races on the first day of the Macau Grand Prix races.

GEG is committed to supporting the Macau SAR Government’s directions to develop local sports and promoting the integrated development of sports and tourism. In addition to supporting and sponsoring the Macau Grand Prix in various forms for three consecutive years, for the first time ever, this year, GEG became one of the organizers
